Elihu Root Jr., Lawyer, Is Dead; Statesman's Son a Civic Leader

Arts Patron and Yachtsman
Received Truman Medal —
Leading La Guardia Backer

Elihu Root Jr., a prominent lawyer and son of the late statesman, died yesterday in New York Hospital after a month's illness. He was 86 years old and lived with his second wife, the former Nancy Root, a second cousin, at 25 Sutton Place South.

Mr. Root, though not the celebrity his father was, nevertheless led a distinguished life as a lawyer, civic leader, patron of the arts, yachtsman, soldier and amateur painter.

The first Elihu Root died in 1937 at the age of 91 after a career that included the award of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1912 and service as a United States Senator, Secretary of War under President McKinley and Secretary of State under President Theodore Roosevelt.

A Graduate of Hamilton

Like his father and his son, Elihu Root 3d (by his first wife, the former Alida Stryker, who died in 1951), Elihu Root Jr. was graduated with a B.A. degree from Hamilton College in Clinton, N. Y. He took an M.A. degree there in 1905. The following year, after receiving his law degree from Harvard Law School and gaining admission to the New York bar, he became a law clerk in the New York firm of Byrne & Cutcheon.

Three years later, he founded Root, Clark & Bird. When the younger Root and several of his law associates went into military service in World War I, the elder Root became an active member of the firm for the duration. The younger Root served during the war as a major in the 304th Infantry Regiment of the American Expeditionary Force.

Dewey Heads Old Firm

Elihu Root Jr. stayed with the Root firm until 1954, when he became counsel to the firm of Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen & Hamilton. He continued in this position, going to his 52 Wall Street office every day, until he fell ill a few weeks ago. The name of the old Root firm is now Dewey, Ballantine, Bushby, Palmer & Wood; former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is a senior partner.

During the late nineteen-twenties Mr. Root spent much time at sea as part-owner and a crew member on the schooner Nina as it plied the Atlantic in international races. The 60-foot yacht won several competitions, including the King of Spain's Cup in 1928 for a race from New York to Santander, a port on Spain's northern coast.

Big Companies' Counsel

Mr. Root's law practice was a busy and lucrative one; he served as counsel to such companies as Pan American-Grace Airways and Paramount Publix Corporation, the film company. At the same time, he was named to the boards of some large corporations, including the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, the Fiduciary Trust Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

He became active in civic, educational and cultural affairs. He was a member of the board of overseers of Harvard University and a trustee of Hamilton College, Cooper Union, the Carnegie Institution of Washington, the New York Public Library and the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

In the last few years, he began curtailing most of these activities because of his age, but he was a trustee of the

Greystone, 1951

Elihu Root Jr.

Metropolitan Museum at his death.

Backer of La Guardia

A Republican, Mr. Root was one of the leading backers of Fiorello H. La Guardia in his mayoral campaigns in New York. Speaking at a luncheon of the Women's National Republican Club in 1937, Mr. Root criticized the Roosevelt New Deal as being the product of "snap judgments" and contended that the New Deal's "fundamental persecution of business" was slowly depriving Americans of their "residual liberties."

"From the workingman's point of view," he said, "relief is not the answer to his problem, but jobs, and he won't get those as long as the government keeps grinding its heel down on business."

In another speaking appearance, an address to students at his alma mater, Hamilton, Mr. Root imparted some of his philosophy of life.

"In private life," he told the students, "men succeed because they are competent and fail because they are not."

"In public life they may get by as fakes and windbags. In the world of fame-hunting fog-horn blowers, the pleasure derived from notoriety and publicity seems to be in inverse proportion to the size of the recipient."

On Air Target Board

In World War II, Mr. Root served on the Army Air Forces' Strategic Target Board, for which he was decorated by President Harry S. Truman with the Medal of Merit. Before the United States entered the war, Mr. Root helped to organize a campaign for universal military training for all young Americans. He also headed a committee in 1940 entitled "Immediate Aid to Allies Short of War."

Mr. Root took up painting in his later years, exhibiting his works in amateur shows such as those held by the Century Club, of which he was a member. In 1946, he exhibited an oil, "Moonlight," at a show of lawyers' paintings at the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, 42 West 44th Street. He and his late brother, Edward, put together a collection of oils and prints which they donated to Hamilton College to be borrowed by students for their rooms.

Surviving, in addition to Mr. Root's widow and son, are three grandchildren, David, Carolyn and Alice.

A funeral service will be held in the Hamilton College Chapel at 2:30 P.M. tomorrow. Mr. Root will be buried in the family plot in the Clinton cemetery.

JOHN D. SULLIVAN, LAWYER, 73, DIES

Ex-American Legion Chief in State Was City Aide

Special to The New York Times

PHOENICIA, N.Y., June 21—John Dwight Sullivan, a lawyer who had been state commander of the American Legion and Deputy Controller of New York in the first two years of the La Guardia administration, died today in Benedictine Hospital, Kingston, following a long illness. He was 73 years old.

Mr. Sullivan, a member of the New York bar since 1920, retired in 1966 from the firm of Murphy, Block, Sullivan & Sawyer, 280 Broadway in New York, and moved from Scarsdale, where he had lived for nearly 30 years, to Phoenicia.

Interest in Aviation

Mr. Sullivan, an alumnus of Princeton University, class of 1915, was graduated from the New York Law School in 1918, but meanwhile served in France as a first lieutenant and pilot in the aviation section of the Signal Corps.

In civilian life he took an active interest in veterans' affairs and in the development of aviation. He was commander of Aviator's Post of the American Legion from 1926 to 1929 and of the state Legion in 1934-35. He was appointed by President Herbert Hoover to the Metropolitan Airport Fact Finding Committee in 1926 and was a member of the New York State Aviation Commission, 1929-35, under Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Gov. Herbert H. Lehman.

At the American Legion national convention in Miami in 1934, Mr. Sullivan drew a chorus of boos when, as leader of the New York delegation, he cast its votes against the policy of seeking a Federal bonus for veterans of World War I. This recommendation was overwhelmingly adopted.

Twenty-one years later, again in Miami, he "shouted a loud if ineffective 'No'" on a motion to adopt a report recommending that the legion withdraw its participation in the United States Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

In a letter to The New York Times he said that the convention's action "will tend to diminish the respect for legion opinion on national security, rehabilitation, Americanism and the many other fields in which the American Legion has achieved a long and honorable record."

Golfed With La Guardia

Fiorello H. La Guardia, then a member of Congress, and Mr. Sullivan took part in an aerial golf game at the Dunwoodie course in Yonkers in 1928 in which golf balls were dropped as close to the greens as possible from competing planes, with partners on the ground completing the play.

When the newly elected Mayor La Guardia, on Jan. 5, 1935, dedicated the municipal airport later named in his honor, he welcomed Mr. Sullivan to his official family as Deputy Controller in a speech pledging expanded air facilities.

Two years later, the two old associates engaged in a heated argument at a meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission. The hot-tempered Mayor sounded off after Mr. Sullivan told him that a relocation of an Emergency Relief Bureau office to make room for a Harlem Art Center would cost the city $74,000 a year.

When the Mayor challenged Mr. Sullivan, he replied that he had received a letter on which he based his statement.

"Then you got that letter by misrepresentation, the Mayor charged.

"You had better make good on that charge, Mr. Mayor," the Deputy Controller replied with heat. "I want a bill of particulars. I regard it as a very unfair statement."

Returned to Practice

The storm passed, but four months later Mr. Sullivan resigned to return to his law practice. Controller Frank J. Taylor said that as legal adviser he had passed on more than 10,000 claims against the city, amounting to $12-million.

Mr. Sullivan was chairman from 1940 to 1950 of the Committee on Aeronautical Law of the New York State Bar Association and was also active in the New York County Lawyers Association and the Bronx County Bar Association. He was a member of the Graduate Council of Princeton from 1926 to 1940.

He is survived by his widow, the former Evelyn Houghton; two sons, Dwight Sullivan of Miami and Roger H. Sullivan of Scarsdale, and four grandchildren.

The funeral will be private.

MRS. A. N. HAND, 95, WIDOW OF JUDGE

4/11/67

Former Head of Church and Charitable Groups Dies

Mrs. Susan Train Hand, an active church and charity worker who was the widow of Augustus Noble Hand, the Federal judge, died yesterday at her home, 11 East 68th Street. She was 95 years old.

Mrs. Hand was a short, slim woman who, according to a relative, "gave an impression of great calm and great dignity." She was born on April 4, 1872 in Annapolis, Md., the daughter of Vice Admiral Charles Jackson Train and Grace Tomlinson of Batavia, N.Y. Her father, who died in 1906 in China, was at one time the commander of the Asiatic Fleet.

She was married in 1899 and settled in New York. Her husband was appointed by President Wilson in 1914 to the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. He was advanced to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second District in 1927 by President Coolidge. He retired in 1953 and died the following year.

Judge Hand was a first cousin of Judge Learned Hand, also a member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, who died in 1961.

Mrs. Hand had been president of the Woman's Association of Grace Church Episcopal, Broadway and 10th Street, and chairman of many of its committees. An adept knitter and sewer, she still undertook projects for the church in her 90th year.

Started Group to Aid Nurses

In 1924, she founded what later became the Lower West Side Committee of the Visiting Nurse Service of New York, the first such voluntary committee. She was its chairman for many years.

She received a certificate for meritorious service, representing 4,000 hours of work, from the American Red Cross in 1946. For many years she served on the Board of Managers of the Elizabethtown (N.Y.) Community Hospital, and she was one of the founders of the Essex County-Adirondack Garden Club. She spent summers in Elizabethtown, an Adirondack community where her husband's family had lived since 1831.

Mrs. Hand wrote two privately published books: "John Trayne and Some of His Descendants," published in 1933, and "Letters of the Hand Family 1796-1912," issued in 1923.

Her daughter, Mrs. Serena Hand Savage, wife of William L. Savage of Morristown, N.J., died in 1950. She leaves a brother, Rear Adm. Charles Russell Train, retired, of Washington; 3 grandchildren, Arthur V. Savage of Pelham, N. Y., Mrs. T. Guthrie Speers Jr. of New Canaan, Conn., and Mrs. Morton J. Baum Jr. of Staunton, Va., and 10 great-grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held at 4 P.M. tomorrow at Grace Church. Burial will be in Elizabethtown.

Beloved son of Robert (Bobby). Loving son of Samuel and the late Esther. Dear brother of Hilda Unterman. Services Wednesday, 11.30 A.M., "The Riverside," 1250 Central Ave., Far Rockaway, L. I.

HAMILTON—Sadie. United Order True Sisters Bathia, No. 8 sorrowfully announce the passing of our Sister and Life Member. Services Tuesday, 11 A.M. Runyon Funeral Home, Dunellen, N.J.
